Digital Innovation Transforming Construction

Construction Technology Summit 2016 connects Australia's leading contractors, developers and consultants with leading Australian digital construction technology innovators to explore how the construction, infrastructure and asset management sectors will be transformed by the next wave of digital innovation.

Co-hosted by Aconex in partnership with the Victorian government, the event features a construction industry summit (including expo featuring leading digital innovators) with a startup day exclusively reserved for digital technology innovators.

Be a part of a unique event that will set the direction of Australia's construction sector in the coming decade - and understand how digital transformation will impact your business.
